LET'S TALK ABOUT YOUR FUTURE WITH US

At University Centre Farnborough, we are proud to welcome a diverse group of learners to our institution. Whether you have picked up this prospectus because you are looking for a second career, are due to finish college, have recently started a family, or simply want to study for the enjoyment of a new challenge – know that you are welcome here.

Making a decision about where to study can be difficult, so I would like to briefly tell you what makes us different from other colleges and universities. We work hard to not only provide you with the qualifications needed to step straight into a career, but to do so swiftly and with the close support you need to feel especially confident about your next steps. This is why we have expanded our popular range of two-year accelerated degrees, launched our Institute for Career Enhancement, and developed online learning for many of our courses.

Many of our courses also come with opportunities for work placements, helping develop transferable skills and giving you a head-start when approaching employers when applying for roles.

Thanks to our unique relationship with the prestigious University of Surrey, our degree students are empowered to take on continuous professional development and continue studying at Master's level and beyond, or begin their careers after graduating. We believe that this, combined with class sizes that nurture interaction and support, makes us a great option for your studies.

I look forward to meeting you soon at an Open Event, and can't wait to celebrate your success at a graduation ceremony.

TERNATIVE THE ALTERNATIVE TO A TRADITIONAL UNIVERSITY

TO A TRADITIONAL UNIVERSITY

WE DELIVER OUR COURSES IN A DIFFERENT WAY TO TRADITIONAL UNIVERSITIES.

Based at Farnborough College of Technology, we offer classroom-based lectures, a small campus experience and plenty of personalised support. This makes us a popular choice for college-leavers and mature students alike, who want to study in a down-to-earth setting.

Many of our lecturers have worked in industry. This means they will bring their expertise and experiences to lessons, giving you a full insight into your subject within the classroom and beyond.

We are also proud to work in partnership with a range of carefully selected institutions to offer you high quality teaching and qualifications.

Our two-year accelerated, foundation, honours, and master's degrees are awarded by the University of Surrey, a leading UK university based in Guildford with an outstanding reputation. This means your degree will be associated with both University Centre Farnborough and the University of Surrey, leading to greater recognition from employers and other institutions.

Our HNC and HND qualifications are awarded by Pearson, the UK's largest awarding body. Developed in conjunction with employers, students, and professional bodies, BTEC Higher Nationals offer students real experience, opportunities and comprehensive qualifications that will benefit their chosen career.

MATURE STUDENT?

MATURE STUDENT? YOU'RE IN GOOD COMPANY

EDUCATION IS FOR EVERYONE, REGARDLESS OF AGE.

There is no typical mature student. Some students come to us after a career, starting a family, and finding new interests later in life. If you have had a break from education, returning to study might seem both exciting and daunting. At Farnborough, you can relax knowing you will not be alone and will get lots of support from our dedicated staff.

Our classes are made up of people aged 18 and over from lots of different backgrounds and walks of life. Students have told us they become good friends with their classmates and feel reassured knowing there are others in a similar position.

We have a network of support services that can help you to manage your time and balance studying with work and family commitments. For example, taking advantage of our study spaces to complete assignments away from distractions at home. Plus, our library is open late two nights per week giving you more time to study. Depending on the course you are applying to, there may also be financial help available for tuition fees and study costs. Find out more on our website.

They're so reassuring and understanding, and they know we have lives outside of the course. Before, I was someone who felt a bit lost and because I've done quite well in the degree it's boosted my confidence."

LEARNING SUPPORT

I always wanted to be a teacher, but life prevented me from getting the necessary qualifications. When my family relocated I discovered University Centre Farnborough.

Before this I had struggled to find a course that would fit round my job and raising my children.

The learning support course at Farnborough was a dream come true since it allowed me to study locally with a weekly evening class that fitted perfectly round my children and my job as a teaching assistant.

Over time our class became a close-knit group that were really supportive of each other. This and the support of the lectures means the course and environment are really welcoming.

During my time here, I have been recognised for my participation in the programme and my dedication leading to a promotion.

I will be continuing my teacher training while working at my school until I achieve my goal of becoming a teacher.

COUNSELLING

I have always had a passion for helping people, particularly with their mental health, so counselling was always the career path I wanted.

After researching multiple universities, I found Farnborough to be the best fit for me. It was local, had good reviews and offered the exact course I wanted.

I thoroughly enjoyed my time here, starting from the introductory course and progressing through the levels until I completed my diploma.

After spending four years at Farnborough, I started my own private practice as a fully qualified counsellor where I have now been practicing for over six years.

Farnborough gave me the skills I needed to be able to achieve my goal and I have since completed multiple further courses and a Master's degree.

GRAPHIC DESIGN

I was working in retail when I saw my friends graduating and I realised it was time for me to take action. Design had always been a passion of mine and after talking to the course leader I started that September.

My classmates and I had a close relationship where we could give each other advice and have a laugh while supporting each other throughout the course. Our lecturers provided us with unwavering support and were happy to accommodate any personal challenges we had.

My time on the course was spent honing my skills with industry-based work, including redesigns for friends and companies, and delving into branding concepts. With this experience I was able to work with larger companies while studying where I was the social media manager for one and a part time lead designer for another.

Working with clients, our trip to Brussels and the end-of-year show are just some of the great experiences I had on the course. I loved my time at Farnborough, and I advise anyone to pursue a degree when you feel ready, no matter how long it might take.

PHOTOGRAPHY

I've enjoyed my time at Farnborough - I've made new friends, enjoyed the course itself, and my tutor has been really helpful too.

The facilities are easy to access and made my assignments less difficult to complete with so much available to me. We've had guest speakers come in which has been helpful too, especially when Silvia Rosi visited. They have a similar culture to me and shared the same interest in portrait and documentary photography which I found quite inspirational.

Next, I am hoping to launch my career in commercial portraiture by specialising in weddings and families.

CRIMINOLOGY AND PSYCHOLOGY

I studied at another university originally, but decided to come to Farnborough to study criminology which fitted in better with my career plans. Farnborough was different because the groups were so much smaller, it felt like I was getting 1 to 1 support. It was a good class, we had lots of fun, and everybody was ready to help.

I think you should take advantage of the opportunities you have locally, whether you're an army wife like me or not.

The degree was really relevant to my career plans. I started as a teaching assistant locally, and am now using the skills from my degree to go further and confidently start new challenges.

I'm now starting my career as a probation officer thanks to my new skills and knowledge.

EARLY YEARS

I've always wanted to work with children, having worked as a swimming and gymnastics coach in the past. I took a gap year in-between my A Levels and degree and was working in a school as a learning support assistant when I joined the course. Lots of my colleagues had studied at Farnborough too so I knew this was a good option for me.

The course was tailored to us, so we could apply what we had learnt in the workplace really easily. We had some great lecturers. They made things practical and enjoyable while appreciating that the students come from different backgrounds and experience. I felt like this degree gave me a lot of options for the future, whether I wanted to work in a school or in a nursery.

The trips we were offered gave a great opportunity to see how other cultures approach childcare too, plus our lecturers are really up-to-date on the topics being taught and have real-life examples to bring the teaching to life.

I'm working as a Reception Teacher at a local primary school now, and am thinking of specialising in special needs and early years leadership.

AERONAUTICAL ENGINEERING

I have always been interested in how aircraft are maintained, so the fact that Farnborough has such a rich aviation history was great as I have a keen interest in aviation in general too.

I chose Farnborough because the atmosphere was very warm and friendly. Everyone on the course is very focused, has the same goal and interests, and are willing to help you out.

I was never good with having to memorise everything only to then answer questions on it all in one sitting, so having the opportunity to do a course that is more coursework-based was right for me.

I spent most of my life as a professional ice hockey player, playing for the Toronto Canadian Moose, Cardiff Devils, and the Guildford Flames. When signed to the Guildford Flames, my partner and I started thinking of settling down and preparing for the next stage of our lives, which for me included earning my degree.

I worried I would struggle on the course since it had been almost a decade since I was in any formal education. My lecturers were so supportive. They gave insightful feedback that helped to improve my written skills.

I found it amazing that on the course, you become a fully qualified personal trainer with far more in-depth knowledge than short training courses provide. I asked others in the industry and have not heard of another degree that offers this as part of the course.

My class schedule allowed me to continue to play professionally and run my personal training business while studying.

I have had opportunities to train people of all levels and ages, including working with the Elite Ice Hockey League and my old team, the Guildford Flames, as their strength and conditioning coach. I have my degree to thank for the success of my personal training companies, Train Body Smart and Train Hockey Smart.
